

KILLED SON IN ORDER SHE MIGHT REMARRY SAY POLICE.

Burst of All Human Motives Attributed to Mrs. Edith Molbor, Who Poisoned Child.

United Press Telegram.
ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 11.—Mrs. Edith Molbor, self-confessed murderer of her four year old son, George, was brought here today from Rochester by Detective John Steel. She was taken at once to police headquarters, pending her expected removal later in the day to the Albany county jail. An indictment on a charge of first degree murder will be returned at the earliest possible moment, and a speedy trial for her unnatural crime is expected by District Attorney Sanford.

The police credit the woman with the basest of all motives in the killing of her child—a desire to be rid of him in order that she might marry again. This is the view shared also by Charles P. Smith, the woman's brother.

"She continually talked of her little boy as being in her way," Smith said today.

MCROREY BUILDING WILL BE REBUILT IN SHORT TIME.

No Definite Statement Made, But Good Authority Has It That No Time Will Be Lost.

HORNER REMAINS ON SCENE

No Superintendent Erection of Structure That Was Destroyed—New Structure May Be Fireproof—Coroner H. J. Bell is at Work.

That J. G. McRoyre & Company will rebuild their 1500 ft. Gage store at the corner of Apple and Pitts streets, destroyed by an explosion of gas and the resulting fire Thursday morning causing the death of five people, was stated this morning by people with whom President J. G. McRoyre conferred yesterday.

It is said that present indications point to the erection of a building along the same general plan as the one destroyed—it was suggested to Mr. McRoyre by a Connellsville man that it would be better to have the building made more fireproof, if possible, and it is probable that idea will be followed.

Plans are said to be under way already. President McRoyre was active about the ruins yesterday and was seen several times engaged in earnest conversation with representatives of the Connellsville Plumbing and Mill Company. This is the firm that erected the building destroyed about two years ago.

It is said that concrete floors are included in the plans for making the structure fire proof. This it is thought, will be a great protection in case of fire, more so than the old stone blocks used in the old building.

J. E. Horner, Mr. McRoyre's assistant, who accompanied him here from Pittsburgh, will remain on the ground and have charge of the erection of the new building. Mr. Horner has spent some time in Connellsville, having superintended the building of the old structure.

After conferring with Burgess J. L. Evans yesterday morning, President McRoyre, in a formal ceremony, the strength of debris, carpenters and erect a board fence around the base of the edifice. Scores of people are still visiting the scene of the fire and many were in danger before the fence was erected.

Linemen are busily engaged in repairing the wires torn down during the progress of the flames. A number of them worked all night making connections. It will be a day or two before this work is completed.

A still alarm brought out the fire department early this evening about 9 o'clock to extinguish a burning block, and some rags and blankets in the store of J. L. Gage, which adjoins the McRoyre block. Volumes of dense smoke were first seen pouring out of the upper windows of the building by Officer William Stener who immediately summoned the chemical wagon. A line of hose was laid, and about 12 work was required before the men were certain that the fire was out. Quite a number of people collected to watch the work.

Coroner H. J. Bell is investigating into the circumstances surrounding the fatal explosion and when the inquest is held next Friday afternoon it will find him thoroughly posted regarding the matter and directing a thorough investigation into the cause of the disaster. A large number of witnesses are expected to testify.

Extend Edmunds Act.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(Special)—At the close of session of the Civic Federation, resolutions were adopted advocating the extension of the Edmunds Act to include all interstate public utilities, especially telephone and telegraph companies and electric lighting companies and authorizing immediate arbitration in case of dispute.

The promoters expect to manufacture power at a much cheaper cost than can be done by the present methods and in this way give the West Penn keen competition in its own territory.

None of the incorporators will disclaim the fact that the information secured from a reliable attorney of Pittsburgh is to effect that the bills will be passed.

"CLOSING THRILL" PROMISED IN SCHENK CASE.

Mr. Schenk came to the hospital the Sunday evening "Mrs. Kline" arrived. "She said she had heard her husband was worse. I wish to God he'd die," she said. "I pray every night that I may be called and told he was dead." There are times when I feel I could kill him," she said. "I said, 'Why don't you try it?' She looked at me at moment and then said, 'How much would you do it for?' I said $3,000. She said, 'That's too much. I will give you $1,000.'"

She was sternly dressed in a dark and shabby coat with a heavy belt drawn back over a black belt. The witness told of speaking with Mrs. Schenk.

She expressed fear that Mr. Schenk was trying to get the keys to his brothers safety box, she boasted that I get them in the event of her husband's death.

"I expressed fear I might be caught giving the poison. She suggested that I had the dope medicine on the table. I told her I ask her now, should she be compelled to kill her husband?" "Oh, Lord," she said. "I'd be so happy I could do it easily."

"I told her that wasn't much for the job but finally agreed. I asked her to make out a contract but she balked. I then asked her to make a fur overcoat to buy the young man a fur overcoat the day before her arrest."

"Mrs. Kline," the detective nurse, went on the stand in the Schenk case shortly before noon.

poisoning O'Brien asked, sarcastically: "Wasn't that because Schenk had been introduced to a tooth brush?"

The Court reprimanded the attorney.

Mr. Sodeborn, clothing store proprietor, on the stand told of Mrs. Schenk's coming to his store a few days before her arrest, looking for a fur overcoat.

Mr. Schenk, the man, was in the store, trying to buy the coat, but the coat was too big. Mrs. Schenk did not buy it. Shortly afterwards she was arrested.

Prosecutor Hamilton declared yesterday, when John Phillips was on the stand, that Mr. Schenk had planned to kill his wife by "stuff." "Why, poison," he replied.

FUNERALS OF FIRE VICTIMS.

All Have Been Laid to Rest
Save Miss Ada Pearl

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES HELD

Friends of Miss Smith Gathered in Trinity Lutheran Church—Many Attend Wagner Funeral—Minnie Mulac and Frank Stivone Buried.

The bodies of four victims of Wednesday's great disaster have been laid in their final resting places. Last evening at 7:15 o'clock a large gathering of friends and relatives of Christabel Smith assembled at the Trinity Lutheran church to pay their last respects to the one whom they so highly esteemed. The services were unusually impressive. Rev. E. L. Burgess, pastor of the church, officiated and spoke of the young woman, whom most such an untimely death, in a very touching manner. Many floral tributes were sent to the church by Miss Smith's friends.

The pallbearers were: Robert Moore, George Moore, Lester Borg, the latter of Vanderbilt, Byron and Orland Loyd and Abraham Blatt of Connellsville. The remains were shipped to Pittsburgh this morning for interment by Funeral Director J. E. Sims.

Over 300 persons attended the funeral of Miss Mabel Wagner which took place last evening at 7:30 o'clock from her late home in South Connellsville. Rev. E. C. Miller, pastor of the South Connellsville Evangelical church officiated. The services were very touching. The floral tributes were numerous and very prettily arranged. The pall bearers were: F. V. Vasson of New Kensington, G. H. Miller and J. D. C. Miller of South Connellsville. The body was shipped to Confluence this morning by Funeral Director J. E. Sims.

Funeral services were held in the Methodist Episcopal church at Confluence on the arrival of the train. Miss Wagner formerly resided at Confluence and a large gathering of her friends attended the services. Interment at Addison, Pa.

Miss Minnie Mulac, the youngest of the victims, was laid to rest in the Dickerson home cemetery this afternoon. A number of sad features were connected with Miss Mulac's death. Her sister, Mrs. Rose Lakes, who is at the Cottman St. hospital, has not been told of her sister's death and she is reeling over the fact that her sister escaped with her life. Mrs. Mulac, mother of the girl, did not look upon the remains of her daughter. She is almost frantic over the tragic death of her youngest child. Decayed had many friends, especially in the West Side, where she resided, and her death is keenly felt by all who knew her.

The body was kept at Funeral Director J. E. Sims' establishment until this afternoon when it was taken to Vanderbilt.

Frank Stivone was buried this afternoon in the Italian cemetery. Services were held at 2 o'clock from Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Italian church. Deceased was well known among the Italians and his funeral was a large one.

Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock the funeral of Miss Ada Pearl Thomas will be held from her parents' residence Mr. and Mrs. David Thomas at West Overton. Since the arrival of the body at the Thomas home many friends have called at the home to extend their sympathy to the stricken family.

Victims at the Hospital Improve

The victims of the fire who were removed to the Cottage State hospital are getting along very nicely. Their beds are placed side by side and all of the patients are very cheerful. Mr. Edward Miller's face is painfully burned.

Miss Nellie Mitchell is resting easily at her home on Oregon street. She is conscious and is not suffering pain to any extent. Her ear is badly swollen and as yet the attending physician cannot determine whether or not she will lose her hearing.

Miss Mary King is suffering great pain from an injured back. She is unable to move in bed without assistance. Miss King had a very narrow escape.

SCIENCE PREVENTS BALDNESS.

The Fatal Germ and its Remedy Now Facts of Science.

It is the fatal thing in the world for a man to be necessarily bald. No man whose hair is not dead at the roots, need be bald if he will see Herold's Herpoxide, the new scalp antiseptic. Herpoxide destroys the germ that cuts the hair off at the root, and cleans the scalp of dandruff and leaves it in a perfectly healthy condition. Mr. Mannett, in the Maryland block, Butte, Mont., was entirely bald in less than a month. Herpoxide had removed the remains of hair growth, and nature did its work by covering his head with thick hair an inch long, and in six weeks he had a normal suit of hair. Send by leather envelope. Miss Mary Brown Was 98 Friday

In honor of her 98th birthday anniversary Miss Mary Brown was entertained at a simple dinner yesterday by Miss Marcelli Coughlin at her home on Main street, West Side. Guests were laid for Miss Jennie Holt, Mrs. Margaret Richter, Mrs. Eliza Carson of Connellsville, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Loyd of Vanderbilt, Mrs. Brown and the hostess.

Miss Brown is remarkably bright for a woman of her age. None present enjoyed the day more than she. She conversed freely with her friends and appeared to be a woman young in mind. She is up and the last year Miss Brown was able to walk about and visit with friends in the West Side. She is not showing more feebly and most of the time needs assistance in getting about. Her mental faculties are excellent and she spends the greater part of her time in reading. She keeps in close contact with current events. She has resided in and around Connellsville for over 40 years, and for the past 30 years has made her home with her niece, Mrs. Eliza Carson on the West Side. In the afternoon a number of persons, including Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Mills and Mr. Clark Collins and Captain E. Dunn, Captain Dunn was the installing officer. The meeting was well attended. One May Cure.

The result of this year will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure, and that is cancer. The medical fraternity has known the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Cancer is a constitutional disease, requiring a constitutional treatment. The One May Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and muscles, and is a powerful agent in destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution, and attacking the disease at its source. The practitioners have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

SATURDAY EVENING, JAN. 14, 1911.

AN OPPRESSIVE TAX
ON PENNSYLVANIA INDUSTRY.

The proposition of the State Tax Commission to levy a tax of one mill on the capital stock of all Pennsylvania corporations is unjust and unwise.

If the State of Pennsylvania were in financial condition, if it were debt-ridden and desperate, if its necessities pressed it to levy unusual and oppressive taxes, such a step might be defended.

But Pennsylvania is practically without out any debt. Its revenues aggregate the enormous sum of $2,000,000 annually of which over $17,000,000 are contributed by corporations. The proposals for 1910 from Governor
Seward's Budget are as follows:

REVENUES.
Corporations, $17,200,000
Interest on debts, 1,000,000
Personal property tax, 4,000,000
Inheritance tax, 1,000,000
Licenses, 3,250,000
State debts, 1,000,000
Other sources, 1,000,000
Total, $20,000,000
EXpenditures.
Administration, $ 5,000,000
Hospital and asylum, 2,000,000
Pensions and recompenses, 720,000
Charitable institutions, 4,700,000
State highways, 1,000,000
Campus, 1,000,000
National Guard, 1,000,000
Forest trees, 300,000
Forest reservations, 100,000
Prisoners, 1,000,000
Dispensaries and infirmaries, 1,000,000
Towpath roads, 500,000
Other items, 4,500,000

Total, $27,500,000.

This indicates that the State of Pennsylvania, notwithstanding the very liberal appropriations for penal, charitable and other institutions, the millions given to its public schools, its public highways, its State highways and other bonded debts, during the past year, still had a surplus of over $2,000,000. Why is it deemed necessary to increase the revenues so drastically?

We have not the figures at hand, but a tax of one mill on corporate capitalization in the State of Pennsylvania would yield an enormous revenue. The necessity for this income should be shown before any steps are taken to levy the proposed oppressive taxation.

Pennsylvania is the first manufacturing State in the Union. Its property is largely due to its industrial enterprises, and almost without exception they take the corporate form.
An increased tax on corporations will be a burdenome tax on industry. It will have other tendencies than industrial operations out of Pennsylvania, or at least to suggest to them
the advisability of taking out charters in some more friendly State. The first alternative will deprive Pennsylvania of a large portion of her property and the latter will deprive the State Treasury of a considerable share of its revenues. Seldom has there been a more dangerous proposition made by statesmen.

We assume that Connellsville is a fair sample of progressive Pennsylvania communities. Its Chamber of Commerce is active and alert, its people are progressive and their town is located here, and it has been actively successful in this work; but if the proposed tax on the capital stock of corporations becomes a law, now industries seeking locations will turn their faces elsewhere, and the future work of the Chamber of Commerce will be confined to academic discussion of those sad words of tongue and pen,
"It might have been."

Pennsylvania is suspected of being rather extravagant in its appropriations, and the recommendations of the Tax Commission indicate that further and extraordinary expenditures are contemplated. To furnish the means for this extravagance the corporations are considered the easiest and most painless source. But the Tax Commissioners overlooked the fact that oppression of the corporations means the oppression of every form of business, now that partnerships have been almost universally replaced with corporate combination; and further that such a tax will not only be burdensome to Pennsylvania industry, but it will also be the means of preventing new industries from locating in this State.

The Legislature should be more economical in its appropriations and less eager to pursue and punish Pennsylvania industry.

If Congress is really anxious to find out whether Peary reached the Pole,

AFTER EFFECTS IN SCOTTDALE.

Great Bible Teacher to Follow Davis and Mills Campaign.

IS COMING ON JANUARY 22

William H. Pike Will Be in Mill Town For a Week—Interest in the Churches Is Not Dying out But Is Growing.

SCOTTDALE. Jan. 11.—The announcement made last night that William H. Pike, the Bible teacher from the Practical Bible Training School at Letchworth, N. Y., will be in Scottdale, Saturday, January 22 and will have Bible study classes each afternoon and evening for a week is interesting to many. The meetings will be in the First Methodist Episcopal church of which Rev. R. B. Munro, D. D., is pastor. They will be for all denominations or for any no church folks.

This is only another means by which the evangelical campaign of Davis and Mills is kept up. The interest aroused in the Bible during their stay in Scottdale before they entered the work now going on in Connellsville will be maintained. There was a great demand for a Bible teacher to come here.

Every church has been strengthened and the meetings are going on even more intensely than when the evangelists were here. The ministers say that the evangelists' meetings benefited them greatly, gave them a better insight to their work and more power, and they feel they were rewarded for the strong manner in which they helped the meetings from the first in Scottdale.

The Scottdale ministers and church people assert that increased meetings over town, and particularly the marked increase in numbers present at prayer meetings since the evangelists have been here is the most wonderful result. The prayer meeting is considered the slow meeting of the church very often. Now it is one of the first in all the churches. People have been seen steadily at the prayer meetings ever since the evangelists left that were never seen at that service previously, although they attended other services.

100 work has spread out from here. There has been an active revival at Mt. Nebo United Brethren Church, Rev. J. J. Funk, pastor, and one is now going on at Owendale in the same church of which Rev. Funk is pastor. Rev. P. O. Warner, the pastor, held a revival at Wearey Chapel Methodist Episcopal church and is now holding a successful one at Jacobs Creek. There is a quarterly conference of this church at the pastor's study in the Pleasantville Episcopal church of Scottdale this afternoon.

The Christian church, Rev. T. B. Sleeter, pastor, closed a successful revival this week, headed by Rev. C. L. Vawter and Prof. Murry. The Methodist Episcopal people, and a number of evangelistic services, the Presbyterian and United Presbyterian churches have had special meetings, and the United Brethren are getting prepared for a series of meetings. Rev. H. B. Sleeter has carried on very effective and steady meetings at the Evangelical church, while the Reformed church will have special services by visiting ministers beginning on Tuesday, preparing for their communion next Sunday. The Baptists have had several great meetings and are preparing for more soon, while they have had a wonderful increase in membership.

"George Sidney," In the musical comedy "The Joy Rider" at the Golemon Theatre Monday night, January 16. Prices 25c, 50c, 75c and $1.00. Seats now on sale. Both phones.

Closing the Campaign. The membership and current revenue campaign inaugurated in the Y. M. C. A. a couple of weeks ago will close with a rousing meeting at the Baptist church tomorrow afternoon at 3:30, when reports will be made of the work. There will also be a fine musical and literary program.

Dr. Sargent Coming. Preceding the lecture by Seaborn Wright of Georgia in the Y. M. C. A. lecture course at the Greer Opera house last evening, G. A. Kelly announced that Dr. Wm. A. Sargent is to be here February 27. It is the extra attraction the committee is able to give on account of the liberal premium for the course, thus making it for the price of five attractions, etc.

Mr. Wright said that he was nearly worn out and spoke with intense effort on "The Spirit of Authority," to which the big audience listened to with closest attention. The speaker did not aim at the little red shirted fellow who throws a bomb but characterized as the anarchist the man who deliberately defuses the fuse to make money out of it. Seven hundred presentations in Pennsylvania against violation of the pure food laws he used as an illustration of the spirit of anarchy near at home.

Sermon For Firemen. At the Christian Church, tomorrow there will be Bible School at 9:15 A. M. an preaching at 11 A. M. The Scottdale Volunteer Fire Company will meet in their hall and march to the church where there will be an appropriate sermon preached to them, just EASILY BREAKS A SEVERE COLD.

In Just a Few Hours All Misery From a Bad Cold or the Grippe Will Be Overcome.

Papa's Cold Compound is the result of three years research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

It is a positive fact that a dose of Papa's Cold Compound taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken, will end the Grippe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach, limbs or any part of the body.

It completely relieves the most miserable maladies, pains, headache, dullness, heat, and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous, catarrhal discharge, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, made where else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects, as a 25 cent package of Papa's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

ORANGE WEEK!

FORTY-FIVE Carloads Coming—Are California's Finest—The "SUNKIST" Kind—ON SALE ALL NEXT WEEK!

Attractive Prices and Special Displays of "SUNKISTS" At All Dealers

Forty-five carloads of famous "Sunkist" oranges—more than 15,000 boxes—are speeding eastward by fast freight, direct from the orange groves of California.

They will be here, on sale at every dealer's next Monday morning. The sale will continue through the week. It will be the biggest affair of its kind in history.

Last year's "Sunkist" Orange Sale was such a huge success, and everybody bought so liberally, that your local dealers were simply swamped with business. They were hardly able to supply the demand. We therefore suggest that you place your order for "Sunkist" oranges as early next week as possible. Then you will be certain of being supplied.

Every orange in every box is sound, tree-ripened and hand-picked—the most luscious, healthful fruit in the market. For "Sunkist" oranges are California's choicest crop.

Five thousand orange growers select their crop and pack them under the name "Sunkist." Thus every "Sunkist" orange is peeled—solid, sweet and full flavored.

In "Sunkist" wrappers you get tree-ripened, hand-picked oranges of the most acceptable variety. Every orange is picked by a gloved hand. They are shipped by fast freight, and always reach your table in prime condition. Being seedless, fiberless and thin-skinned, there is but very little waste. They are the most economical oranges you can buy. Each one is packed in a germ-proof tissue paper wrapper and bears the label "Sunkist."

people to eat more oranges. We are a nation of meat eaters. And in winter, especially, the system gets clogged, causing congestion, colds, fevers, etc. Those who eat fresh wholesome fruit freely, seldom require medical treatment.

Serve Them for Breakfast and in Salads and Desserts

Oranges are the ideal breakfast fruit and "between meals" lunch. For salads, they are indispensable. Orange ices, sherbets, puddings, etc., are very popular and delicious desserts.

"Sunkist" by the Box

"Sunkist" oranges reach you in such perfect condition, fresh from the orange groves, that they will keep for weeks. Your dealer can make you a handsome saving if you order a box or half box. They are greater than table apples, and the greatest health food.

A Word About "Sunkist" Lemons

Fruit dealers at all times are supplied with "Sunkist" lemons. They are the same superior quality as "Sunkist" oranges. Never skinless or pulpy.

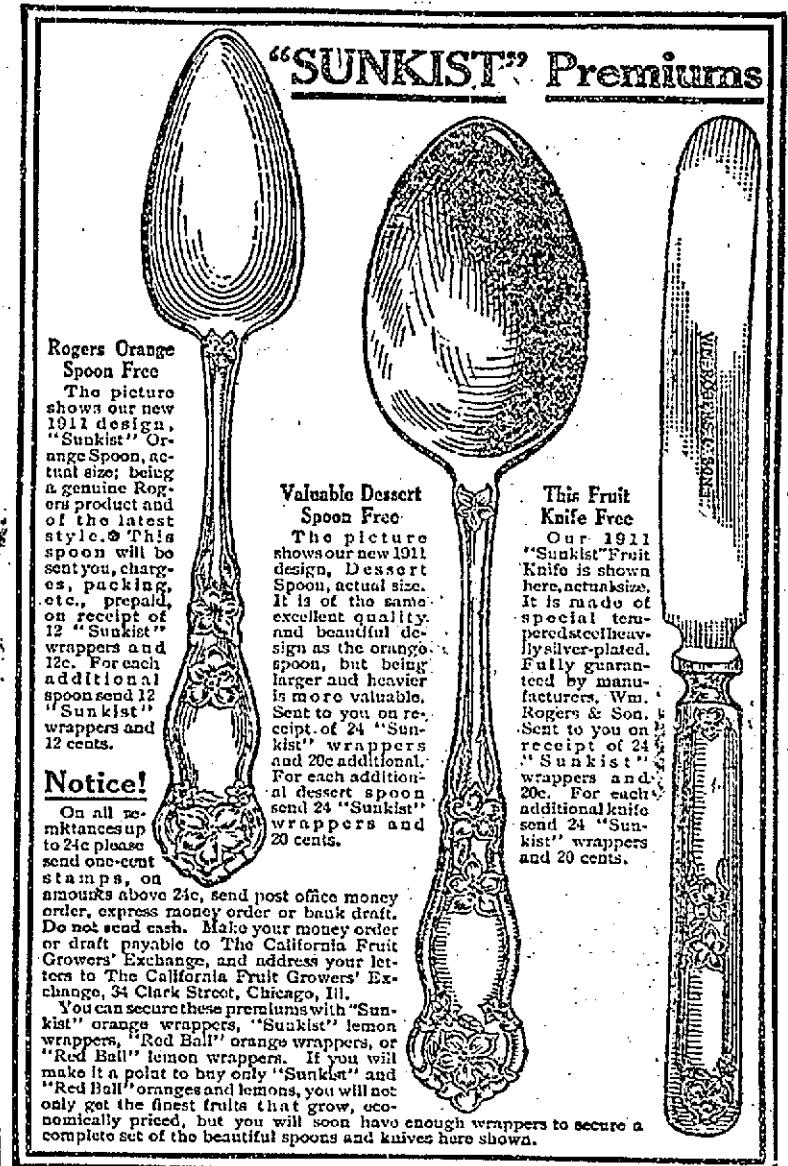

"Sunkist" lemons are so juicy that two of them equal three of the common lemons. They are packed in "Sunkist" wrappers.

Save Your "Sunkist" Wrappers

By saving your "Sunkist" orange and lemon wrappers you can easily secure a full set of Rogers orange spoons, dessert spoons and fruit knife. The picture shows here are our new 1911 styles, designed exclusively for us. They are as attractive and stylish as any to buy. All are Rogers quality, standard No. 1 plate, and are guaranteed by the maker. No advertising appears on any of our cutlery.

But he went steadily on: "You said there was only one way out, and I knew what you meant. It is a way out—way that I can't deny your right to take if we're talking of rights. During the five years that I spent at Sandoval I always regarded it as a right that I could exercise when I chose. Perhaps that is one of the reasons I allowed it. But Joanne, if you elect to take that way, I shall take it with you."

She struggled away from him, turned and faced him with horror-stricken eyes. "You must not say that! You're no right to threaten me with that! No right!" Then, clutching at his hands again, "You must promise!" Again she pulled her hands away and covered her face with them. She was trembling uncontrollably.

"It was not a threat," he said sternly. "It was a promise. I deserved to have the right to make. I made it again, now. Joanne—solenly promise before God. Whether it's living or dying, I shall go beside you."

"No right—" he repeated in a whisper. "What possible right could you have to make promises like that—a right that calls itself a promise?"

"I have no right there is. Listen. Last night, you were lying there asleep. I sat there thinking about you, about the love I had for you; about the change which that love had made in me and would go on making after I had lost you. For I faced losing you. I know that when they sent a boat ashore for you, I should have to lose you without a word. If I could have heard a prophecy then, that today I should be telling you I loved you, telling you with a clear heart and voice that I had gone half-mad for joy, it seemed as if the thing could never happen. I am a man with a stain upon me, and yesterday that stain made it impossible to say anything to you but goodby. I meant to say it, and take my way through the air again and live out the rest of my life on what, from your bounty, you had already given me."

"But the coming of a new day has changed all that. It has given me the right to tell you what I have told you, and I have the right to make that promise. Is it not quite plain? Don't you understand?"

"I must think," she gasped. "You must let me think."

"No," he said. "I have not asked for an answer. There is nothing that you have to tell me. Nothing that I must make. You understand what I said and you know it's true. The supreme fact in my universe is just you. That gives me the right to follow you wherever you go. But you are still free. You can stay here, where Fate has put you, and let me stay here, too, but I am sure that all the happiness in the world that there is no room for me to be found here. And our sides are touching. And then if the torture of passion, loneliness and despair become too hard—"

She turned to him then and interrupted. Her words came quietly, unaccompanied by any gesture of her expressive hands. She spoke with the utmost simplicity.

"They won't be too hard, I think—neither the privation nor the loneliness. There won't be any despairs with you, my friend. And—"

She saw the blood go white out of his face, and then come back with a surge. He drew in two or three great breaths of the keen, whirling air. Then, in a strangely matter-of-fact fashion, he seated himself beside her.

"That gospel begins with breakfast," he said.

CHAPTER XIII.

Captain Fielding's Gospel.

Side by side, upon that great sheep-skin, they sat, those two people, in the very lap of death. A reasonable estimate of their chances would give them, perhaps, a week to live. With exceptional fortune, that week might stretch itself into a month!

The great blue spirit the arctic world darkened to purple, and to black. The icy hand of the long polar winter would get it, that night, that morning. Then, all that nothing to rent it with. Not a atom of ammunition or of food. No clothing, except what they wore. No fuel, save what they could contrive to gather along the talus before the winter gales would make further search impossible.

Neither Joanne nor Cayley was of a sort to face the prospect of that death with resignation. They were young, intensely alive, and with Joanne, at least, the best and biggest part of life lay before her. Until yesterday, in a broad open room before her, they had been a prospect like the one that lay before them, bling its own assurance with it. It was so utterly hopeless that it had been sweeping the walls, roof and floor in a general survey. New, abruptly, he went over to the heap of stones, picked up one of them, rubbed it against his fingers, and scrutinized, with an air of singularly interest, the black炭 in it.

"That is partly the reason why she succeeded in surprising Cayley by sitting down to breakfast with him in the same mood and spirit which she had shown before whom she did not know.

"She was about half-famished," he said as they began their meal, "at least that duck smells perfectly irresistible. It's done to a turn, I think. In a way, it's rather a joke that we should begin our arctic privations with a roast duck."

"There's something queer about that," he said, "something that gets queerer the more I think about it. Why do you suppose the Walrus people abandoned him? Or, rather, do you suppose they did abandon him? They would have done it, but he was too weak to dismantle this one. There are no trees on this land to furnish lumber, and there certainly isn't a hardware store where they could have those doors swung on hinges. But those doors swing on hinges last night and the bolt worked, and, more or less, the walls and roof kept out the cold. For this style of architecture it's pretty good repair."

"It was good," he said, "but not convinced."

"What great heap of stones in there," she began, "doesn't look good repair or recent habitation."

"No it doesn't," he replied. "It's been made to look no little that way that condition otherwise in 100 years. Come, let's have a look. It's something to hope for, at any rate."

She followed him a little perplexed, "To hope for?" she repeated quickly.

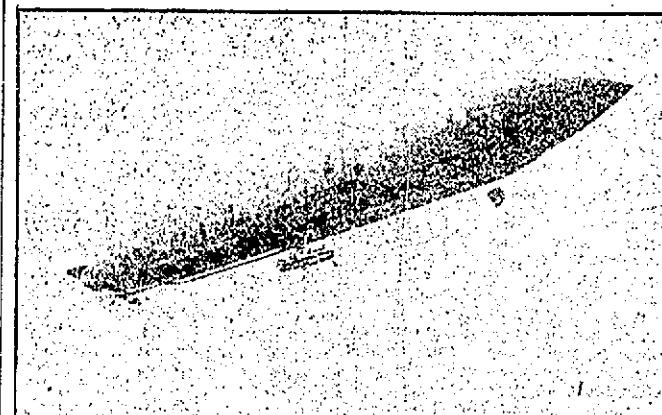

"She followed him a little perplexed, "To hope for?" she repeated quickly.

"It had already entered the hut, and did not at once volunteer any further explanation, but from the shins of excitement she could see in his eyes, it was evident that he contemplated something better than morosely holding death at arms' length for a little while."

To the girl's eyes there was but little about the interior of the hut to account for such a hope, even though she had heard of such things as had been said about it. The heavy inner doors were still hung on their frames, and were provided with a miscellaneous assortment of catches. It was marine hardware, all of it, evidently from her father's ship, the Phoenix. The bunks and shelves which lined the walls looked perfectly solid and well built. But the general appearance of the room presented a look of disarray. It was absolutely unfamiliar. The great heap of smoke-blackened stones, of various sizes and shapes, and the hole in the roof above them, attested that they had once been a fire-place.

From the forlorn aspect of the room the girl gladly turned her eyes away and stood looking at Cayley instead. He had been sweeping the walls, roof

RIDING IN A DIRIGIBLE BALLOON OVER SWITZERLAND

LYMAN H. HOWE'S TRAVEL FESTIVAL

THE SOISSON.

George Sidney.

One of the most up to date musical comedies of the season is promised in "The Joy Rider" which George Sidney (Bugsy) is using as a stirring vehicle this season. Mr. Sidney was unusually successful in securing a place to further exploit his rare talents and surrounded himself with a large coterie of clever comedians, including Miss Cissy. We hope to use it as a charmer of a night and find the gowned chorus girls and well dressed chorus men who know how to dance and sing. "The Joy Rider" will come to the Solson Theatre Monday night, Jan. 6. Seats now on sale at the theatre. Both phones.

"The Girl in the Taxi."

Opportunity to indulge in beauty laugher are none too frequent in this life of strain and stress and the forthcoming visit of "The Girl in the Taxi" to the Solson Theatre Wednesday night, Jan. 18, should not be missed.

Laughter is the keynote of this successful entertainment which comes to this city with quantities of broken records for box office receipts and large audiences to its credit. "The Girl in the Taxi" sped along without interruption for six months in Chicago and would have repeated its triumphs in Boston but for the lack of opportunity for its appearance. In other cities made it necessary to stop its run in the eastern metropolis in the height of its success and after three months of capacity business, Seat sale opens Monday morning at the theatre.

program at the Solson theatre on Thursday night, Jan. 12, will be all the true colors and tints of nature will be created with pleasure by hundreds of local "flock" travelers. It means that by reproducing simultaneously the actual colors of nature with the form, features, motion and sounds of the scene seen. Mr. Howe has achieved the last word in realism. Now "stay-at-home" may consider that detail of color as well as of form, which real travelers could enjoy hitherto. For this reason, no one who appreciates the inspiration, the fascination, the broadening influence of travel, can afford to miss Mr. Howe's Travel Festival.

Some of the big features of the new program show the construction and launching of the White Star Liner "Olympic," the largest ship in the world; dynamiting buildings in Mesopotamia; a ride on a dirigible balloon over Switzerland; another on a motor boat (at a rate of miles an hour); a rainbow bridge; London, "the 1,000,000 city;" an excursion through India; dissolving portraits of prominent Americans; a dangerous but needless bullfight; landing of passengers in a rough sea at Tuna. Seats go on sale Tuesday morning.

A NEW HAVEN CHILD

Restored to Health by Vinol—Case Interests Many Parents.

"My little daughter over since her birth had been frail and sickly, and was a constant source of worry. Several months ago I secured a bottle of Vinol and commenced to give it to her. I immediately noted an improvement in her health and appearance. I gave her three bottles of Vinol, and from the good it has done for her I can truly say it will do all you claim, and I want to recommend Vinol to any one who desires to build up a healthy, well-tempered, run-down system."—J. Edmund Miller, New Haven, Conn. (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

This child's recovery was due to the combined action of the medicinal elements of the cold's fibers—aided by the blood making and strength creating properties of tonic iron, which are contained in Vinol—and the strongest laughing gas.
